Discharging sugar pellets; had it not beene More nobly done renowne by death to winne. Then in the hempen cabin plagued to bee, With men of thy deceived destinie. O while I thinke upon that fatall feild Wherin so much brave English blood was spil d, Wherof I lost a share, and when I call To minde those heroes lamentable fall. Rich, Best, and Cornwall; with the rest, whose bones Want even a monument of pible stones; My soule doth wast with sighes, my troubled braines With tears; but that a manly heart disdaines This female follie. And I hope to see These worthys deathe, proud...
